WILSON'S HISTORY OF DUBOIS COUNTY.

[By George R. Wilson. Illustrated. 412 pp. Published by the author at Jasper, Indiana, 1910. $4.]

Dubois is an Indiana county with a French name and a German population mixed with English and Irish elements. What an interesting field for the historian! Like many another district in the southern part of the State, when organized as a county (1817) in the decade after the battle of Tippecanoe, it took its name from one of the heroes of that action. Captain Toussaint Dubois, of Vincennes, thus became its patron saint. Its spiritual father, however, and the moulder of its early days, was not a man of the sword, but of the cloth, the Reverend Joseph Kundeck, Vicar General of the Catholic Diocese of Vincennes. Father Kundeck came to Vincennes from Austria as a missionary, and in 1838 was installed at Jasper. Until his death in 1857 he was a veritable apostle to the German Catholics of southern Indiana. He built up congregations at Jasper, Ferdinand, Fulda, Troy and Madison, was instrumental in founding St. Meinrad's, and when the second court-house of Dubois county proved too much for other contractors, he showed himself approved in secular as well as sacred things by undertaking it and finishing it in the most satisfactory manner to all concerned.

Mr. Wilson is the first historian of the county. He has been interested in it for years and has examined most of the available sources of information. He covers the ground from "primitive days to 1910," including also a geological and physical description of the county. His work seems to be accurate and complete. Much material for the history of the county joined the mass of such Indiana documents beyond the reach of the historian when
